Creating Classroom Connections: Building Relationships with Children to Support Learning

What is the class about?

In this class, we will :

- Practice ways to build positive relationships with every child
- Learn strategies for creating classroom environments that encourage learning and positive behaviors
- Practice Powerful Interactions—a 3 step model that helps teachers to:
 - Connect with every child
 - Extend Learning in Meaningful Ways
 - Lower classroom stress
 - Promote positive behavior
- Practice specific strategies for dealing with difficult behaviors

When will the class meet?

The class will meet 4 times; approximately once each month, beginning in July 2014 from 9 AM – 12 PM. Cost: $20 per class.

- July 12th
- August 16th
- October 4th
- November 1st

What will be required?

Folks who sign up for the class will need to:

1. Commit to attend all 4 sessions (3 hours each) from beginning to end. (Dates & times will be determined based on when most people are available.)
2. Complete practice assignments which will be done in your classroom with the children. For these assignments, you will practice the strategies that we are learning during the workshops. You will share your experiences at the next session.
3. Agree to be photographed and video-taped in your classroom. These recordings will be shared in the workshop as a way for everyone to build classroom skills. They will not be shared outside of workshop sessions unless you choose to share them.

Why should I participate?

The class is designed to allow you to feel positive about your skills as a teacher and to encourage you to practice strategies that help you relate positively to children and feel increased satisfaction about your work.

Here's what teachers in another program said about a similar series of classes:

- ❖ In a short period of time I feel I was able to learn a simple tool that has greatly improved the way I work with kids. I feel more involved and more purposeful in my work.
- ❖ It really helped me to be more intentional about how I want to interact with children and what I want to teach them.
- ❖ It defined my role as an educator and also what the fundamental behaviors are for ANY teacher who wants more meaningful interactions with their students.
- ❖ The course forced me to take a look at the things that I am doing in the classroom from different perspectives.
